

In this issue of the Annals of Family Medicine

Asthma APGAR Tools in Primary Care 100

Use of Asthma APGAR tools improves asthma control and reduces asthma-related acute care visits.

Behavioral Activation With Mindfulness for Depression in Primary Care 111

Mindfulness training improves symptoms of subthreshold depression and reduces incidence of major depression.

The Sustainability of a Primary Care–Driven eConsult Service 120

A multi-specialty eConsult service has had rapid uptake and stable impact while improving access to specialty care.

Multimorbidity and Socioeconomic Deprivation in Primary Care Visits 127

Patients with multimorbidity receive longer doctor visits, greater perceived empathy, and more patient-centered care in affluent areas than in deprived areas.

A Core Outcome Set for Multimorbidity Research 132

Quality of life, mortality, and mental health are core outcomes in studies of individuals with multimorbidity.

Shared Decision Making for PSA Testing 139

Between 2010 and 2015 there was no increase in shared decision making for PSA testing, but the content of discussions broadened.

Oseltamivir and Suicide Among Pediatric Patients 145

Oseltamivir does not increase the risk of suicide among children.

Digital Rectal Exam for Prostate Cancer Screening in Primary Care 149

There is minimal evidence to support digital rectal examination for prostate cancer screening in primary care.

Moving From Problem-Oriented to Goal-Directed Health Records 155

Meaningful reform of primary care should reflect patients' life and health goals, with corresponding redesign of electronic health records.

A Narrative Approach to Healing Chronic Illness 160

Clinicians can support patients with chronic and terminal illnesses by guiding them through thoughtful exploration of their suffering.

You Will Have a New Life 166

Following a total colectomy, a patient negotiates a new identity as a person with a chronic illness.

From Transactional Tasks to Personalized Care: A New Vision of Physicians' Roles 168

In a new vision for primary care, physicians focus on personalizing care rather than transactional tasks.

When Its Time to Retire: Notes from the Afterlife 171

A family physician explores identity, purpose, and life after retirement.